

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Information from others

Dr. Kathleen Gillis, PsyD, Licensed Psychologist

Dr. Gillis performed psychological assessment with each parent at my request. She and I then discussed the results of the psychological assessments.

Her psychological assessments with each parent included two hours of interview, taking developmental history and administering the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory-2 (MMPI-2), the Revised Conflict Tactics Scale (RCTS), and a parent questionnaire.

Regarding Ms. Botofan-Miller, Dr. Gillis indicated that this parent had taken the MMPI-2 initially in an invalid manner due to answering the questions in an overly virtuous manner. The second time she took the test it was valid but probably still minimized any mental health issues. The results of that part of the assessment did not indicate clinical scale elevations. There was a pattern in the subscales consistent with low self confidence, being self critical, and having self doubts. The RCTS indicated that there had been a number of conflict related behaviors by both parents in the past.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]